Information on Alternatives in Lieu of Bond Requirements

IMPORTANT: A cashier’s check or bank-certified check must remain on file with the Contractors State License Board for a holding period of three years after the expiration of the license period for which the cashier’s check or bank-certified check was given. This will result in a holding period of more than three years.

NOTE: If the board is notified of a complaint relative to a claim against the cashier’s check or bank-certified check, the deposit shall not be released until the complaint has been adjudicated.

A cashier’s check or bank-certified check is held because a claim may be brought against a cashier’s check or bank-certified check within three years after the expiration of the license period for which the cashier’s check or bank-certified check has been provided, or within three years of the date the license was inactivated, canceled or revoked by the Board, whichever occurs first.
