Workers' Comp: Play by the Rules

Licensees are strongly encouraged to review CSLB's website (www.cslb.ca.gov) to make sure the publicly disclosed information in their profile(s) is accurate, especially workers' compensation (WC) insurance details. Approximately 60 percent of CSLB's licensees have a WC exemption on file. An exemption is a statement, signed under penalty of perjury, that verifies a contractor has no employees. A WC exemption is common upon initial application for a license. However, licensees are required to notify CSLB and provide evidence of WC when they eventually hire workers.

CSLB has approximately 170,000 exemptions on file, which is a flag that many contractors either are failing to notify the board of their policy or are employing workers without obtaining a policy. CSLB works closely with the Department of Insurance to investigate and take disciplinary action against contractors who violate WC requirements.

The penalty for having an employee and not having a policy is provided in Labor Code section 3700.5 and Business and Professions Code section 7125.4. It is a misdemeanor to not have a policy, so violators can be criminally charged; in addition, if CSLB finds that a contractor has an employee without a policy, a construction site stop order will be issued. He/she will be required to obtain a policy before resuming any construction project that includes workers.

To obtain a WC policy, contractors need to call the State Compensation Insurance Fund or any of the private WC insurance companies.

Another important step when a contractor has employees is to properly report payroll to their insurance carrier. Contractors need to provide that information to the carrier either monthly or quarterly. Based on the payroll, the insurance company will assess the contractor's premium. Underreporting one's payroll for the purpose of receiving a lower WC premium is a felony in California.

When WC insurance and payroll are accurately reported by all contractors, the premiums cost less for all. In fact, the University of California DATA Survey Research Center in Berkeley has determined that contractors who are accurately reporting payroll to their insurance carrier are paying premiums of up to five times higher than they would be if their competitors were accurately reporting their payroll.

Do You Ever Wonder About Complaints?

CSLB is charged with licensing and regulating the construction industry in California, but also is mandated, by law, to make public protection its number one priority. CSLB provides this protection when it discloses disciplinary action against a license, which allows consumers, businesses, material suppliers, awarding authorities, and/or other contractors to make informed decisions before contracting with a licensed contractor.

CSLB's complaint handling determination is based on California Contractors License Law and the best interests of the public. Most complaints do not meet the requirements for public disclosure and do not result in formal disciplinary action; however, CSLB does disclose complaints to the public that result in citations or formal accusations, as well as the status of the license and workers' compensation insurance.

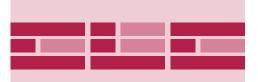

Also, CSLB can disclose complaints referred for investigation if a probable violation has occurred that involves allegations that, if proven, pose a threat to the public and would result

The "Rights" and Wrongs of Project Payment

Contractors, by law, must pay subcontractors and material suppliers or face disciplinary action against their license (Business and Professions Code sections 7108.5 and 7120). Yet, CSLB's Intake Mediation Center has seen a recent surge of complaints from subcontractors and material suppliers for non-payment.

As a subcontractor or material supplier, you must document your work agreement(s), and also make sure you use the protective

A Message from the Board Chair

Those of us who have been in the construction industry our entire lives are still feeling battered by the economic forces we've had little or no control over in recent years. The Board is acutely aware that many contractors have lost their jobs and are still struggling to make a living, especially in certain parts of the state. That's why CSLB is refocusing enforcement efforts that will help make sure law-abiding licensees are not undercut by unlicensed individuals or those who, through fraudulent behavior or low quality work, pose a threat to consumers.

New and enhanced partnerships with the Employment Development Department; Division of Labor Standards Enforcement; Division of Occupational Safety and Health; and Department of Insurance are increasing CSLB's ability to curb illegal activity and educate business owners about proper contracting and the value of hiring state-licensed contractors. The Board also is looking for opportunities to streamline services to contractors—like having online application and renewal features, and is reviewing contracting laws and regulations within CSLB's jurisdiction to make sure they're current and useful.

Remember that the California Licensed Contractor newsletter currently is designed to be an online-only publication; CSLB has printed this edition to help you make the transition. (If you are not already on our email list to receive notification of the latest publications, please sign up by going to our home page at www.cslb.ca.gov, and click on the "Sign up to receive Email Alerts" tab in the left column.)

It's been a pleasure serving as Board Chair for the past year. CSLB is actively engaged in policy and oversight that will assist the construction industry and protect consumers, and we look forward to continuing to work with all trades to help return the industry to more prosperous times.

Respectfully,

Robert J. Lamb, II

CSLB Enforcement staff is identifying these violations through consumer complaints, license and insurance compliance checks at job sites, and by working closely with other state agencies, including the Department of Insurance, Employment Development Department, and the Department of Industrial Relations. Don't take the risk!

CSLB and Cal/OSHA Expand Collaboration

Cal/OSHA has agreed to make early referrals to CSLB in cases where a construction industry employer has acted willfully or with gross negligence, violating occupational safety and health standards, as well as state contracting law and trade standards. This proactive step strengthens the collaboration between the two agencies that was formally established in a 2005 memorandum of understanding.

Cal/OSHA currently refers fatalities or serious accidents to CSLB when a citation for serious, willful or repeated action by a construction industry employer has become a final order of the Occupational Safety and Health Appeals Board.

Between July 2011 and May 2012, 91 such referrals were made to CSLB.

The two agencies agreed at a recent meeting to aggressively work to ensure that CSLB is made aware of appropriate in-progress cases, which might enable CSLB to send one of its industry experts to the construction site to assess whether the contractor has violated minimum industry standards.

Additional areas of agreement include providing CSLB access to Cal/OSHA Citations and Notification of Penalties, continued collaboration by the agencies in the Department of Industrial Relations' Labor Enforcement Task Force to reduce the presence of the underground economy, and to arrange for CSLB to be trained by Cal/OSHA experts regarding Cal/OSHA's Construction Safety Orders and the most frequently cited standards.

in suspension or revocation of the license and/or criminal prosecution (Business and Professions [B&P] Code section 7124.6).

Citations are disclosed from the date of issuance and for five (5) years from the date of compliance. Accusations that result in suspension, stayed suspension or stayed revocation of a contractor license are disclosed from the date the accusation is filed and for seven (7) years after the accusation has been settled. Revocations that are not stayed are disclosed indefinitely. Non-legal complaint files (hard copy) are purged after two (2) years.

The board maintains a complaint history database that can be used to determine if a licensee is engaging in repeated acts that pose a threat to the public and are a cause for discipline. Licensees are expected to conduct their business in a professional manner as well when working with CSLB staff. If you are a licensed contractor and a complaint is filed against your license, CSLB encourages you to cooperate in the investigation. Failure to comply with a written request of the Registrar is grounds for disciplinary action (B&P Code section 7111.1).

When a complaint is filed against a licensee, if appropriate, CSLB will attempt to mediate and help achieve a resolution without disciplinary action. However, complaints involving serious violations of Contractors License Law, including, but not limited to, poor workmanship, abandonment, misuse of funds, failure to obtain a building permit, or failure to maintain workers' compensation insurance for employees, can result in formal disciplinary action, even if the licensee does not have a history of complaints.

CSLB-Sponsored Arbitration

If it serves the best interest of the public, CSLB also has the discretion to refer complaints to CSLB-sponsored mandatory and voluntary arbitration. Mandatory arbitration is designed for dispute amounts of up to $12,500, and voluntary arbitration is for amounts up to and not exceeding $50,000. The licensee cannot have a history of similar or repeated violations, must have a license in good standing at the time of the alleged violation, cannot have any outstanding disciplinary actions filed against him/her, and the parties must not have previously agreed to private arbitration. CSLB-sponsored arbitration is binding; if a licensee fails to comply with an arbitration award, the license will be suspended after 30 calendar days from the date of non-compliance with the arbitration award. By law, failure to pay the award within 90 days from the date of suspension results in revocation of the license.

Excessive Complaints

CSLB expects its licensees to conduct their businesses in a professional manner. While CSLB may assist in resolving complaints without formal disciplinary action, if the licensee continues to receive additional complaints of a similar nature, CSLB may refer the contractor for formal disciplinary action for repeated acts (B&P Code section 7090.5), even though each individual act was resolved.

Keep Survey Monuments Intact

Contractors engaging in construction improvement projects where land survey monuments may be affected are reminded that these legal markers must be retained or replaced in their original positions.

Monuments must be preserved—whether a permanent landmark, wooden hub, cap rebar, tack, stone obelisk, brass disk, meridian disk or the like—because they identify the boundaries of public and private property.

State Business and Professions Code section 8771 requires that a licensed land surveyor or registered civil engineer legally authorized to practice land surveying reference the monuments any time a street, highway, right-of-way or easement is improved, constructed, reconstructed, maintained or resurfaced. If a monument is relocated, it must be reset into the surface of the new construction and recorded with the county surveyor; otherwise, monuments must be retained or replaced in their original positions upon completion of the work. The local government agency that has jurisdiction over the project property also must be involved in the monument identification and preservation process.

California's Board of Professional Engineers, Land Surveyors, and Geologists (BPELSG) has identified monument destruction as a statewide problem and is working to educate local governments and contractors.

For additional information on these state laws and guidelines, contact BPELSG at www.pels.ca.gov or 866.780.5370.

legal steps that are available to you if a non-payment situation arises. You have the right to file a mechanic's lien, provided that you served the homeowner or property owner a Preliminary Notice within the legal timeframe. You must serve this notice before you begin work or deliver products or up to 20 days after delivery or work. This notice is not a lien, but it makes property owners aware that you have the right to file a mechanic's lien should you not receive payment. If you do not serve this notice within the required timeframe, you could lose your lien rights for work done or materials supplied.

Keep in mind that CSLB does not have jurisdiction over lien rights and cannot enforce them. If you are not paid, you must file a claim of lien and an action to foreclose on the lien with the County Recorder's office where the property is located, within the legal time frames. Additional details are included in CSLB's A Homeowner's Guide to Preventing Mechanic's Liens brochure, available at http://www.cslb.ca.gov/Resources/GuidesAndPamphlets/HomeownersGuideToPreventingMechanics Liens.pdf or by calling 800.321.CSLB (2752).

Update on Limited Liability Company Licensing

Licensing for limited liability companies (LLCs) began January 1, 2012. Since making state contractor licenses available to LLCs, CSLB has received approximately 250 applications. As of May 1, 2012, 26 licenses have been issued.

One issue causing delays for applicants is application information that is incomplete or inconsistent with the LLC information maintained by the Secretary of State's office (SOS)—such as the LLC registration number and the full listing of personnel information (members and managers). Information CSLB obtains from SOS must be identical.

Accurate information is essential before CSLB can determine the appropriate amount of required LLC liability insurance (between $1 million and $5 million, depending on the number of personnel). There is currently up to a four-month processing backlog at SOS for the Statement of Information (Form LLC-12) upon which LLCs report their members and managers; however, expedited processing is available through SOS for additional fees. For more information, visit http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/be/preclearance-expedited-services.htm.

In addition, potential LLC applicants should be aware that, pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 7071.19(c), the required liability insurance for LLCs must be written by insurers that are "duly licensed" in California. Therefore, only those insurers that are "admitted" by the California Department of Insurance (CDI) are acceptable. You can refer to CDI's website at www.insurance.ca.gov (look under the Consumers tab, select Licensee Information, and then select Search Insurance Company Profiles) to determine if your preferred insurer is licensed with CDI. If they are not, you must find another insurer from the Insurance Company Profiles listing.

Public Works Project Guidelines Detailed

Public works refers to construction projects paid for, in whole or in part, out of public funds, or to privately funded projects with more than 50 percent of the square footage leased to a public entity. To protect the public, many aspects of the construction process are regulated.

The Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Apprenticeship Standards (DAS), is responsible for maintaining apprenticeship programs and enforcing apprenticeship requirements on public works projects. Apprenticeship is a system of learning while earning, and "learning by doing." It combines on-the-job training with related and supplemental instruction at school. DAS helps ensure that when public monies are spent for construction, apprentices are employed as directed by California law.

Three Easy Legal Requirements

California Labor Code section 1777.5 requires all public works contractors and subcontractors to:

1. Submit award information

Submit the contract award information in writing to each of the apprenticeship program sponsors in the area of your public works project within 10 days of the prime execution of the contract or subcontract, but no later than the first day in which the contractor has workers employed on the public work. You may use form DAS 140. This is simply a notification of award; it is not automatically a request for dispatch of a registered apprentice.

2. Employ registered apprentices

One of the legal requirements for working on a public works project is the employment of apprentices.

A contractor on a public works project must employ one (1) hour of apprentice work for every five (5) hours performed by a journeyman. All contractors must request dispatch of an apprentice from an apprenticeship program (for each apprenticeable craft or trade) by giving the program actual notice of at least 72 hours (business days only) before the date on which apprentices are required. All contractors who did not receive a sufficient number of apprentices from their initial request must dispatch apprentices from all apprenticeship committees, if more than one exists in the county where the public works project is performed.

3. Make training fund contributions

Contractors who are awarded public works jobs must make training fund contributions in the amount established in the prevailing wage rate publication for journeymen and apprentices.

Contractors who contribute to an apprenticeship program are entitled to a full credit in the amount of those contributions. Contractors must submit their contributions to the California Apprenticeship Council, P.O. Box 420603, San Francisco, CA 94142-0603 or an approved apprenticeship committee.

Training fund contributions to the Council are due and payable on the 15th day of the month for work performed during the preceding month. The contribution should be paid by check and be accompanied by a completed training fund contribution form (CAC-2) or a letter containing all information that is required in the form.

All forms and further information can be found on the DAS website at http://www.dir.ca.gov/DAS/PublicWorksForms.htm.

Attention Licensees: Address Change Reminder

Be sure to notify CSLB any time your business address changes so the board can provide you with important, time-sensitive information concerning your license. Failing to update your information can cause major delays, and also may result in an administrative citation and fine.

The U.S. Postal Service does not forward state mail and, by law, you are required to keep your business information up to date. Business and Professions Code section 7083 states that licensees must notify CSLB, in writing, within 90 days of a business address change.

You can access the Application to Change Business Name or Address from the Forms and Applications page at http://www.cslb.ca.gov/Resources/ FormsAndApplications/Changing BusinessNameAddress.pdf.

Keep in mind that if the new address is a post office box, the business street address also is required.

Once you've submitted your change form, you can verify that the information has been processed by checking your license information online at https://www2.cslb.ca.gov/OnlineServices/CheckLicenseII/checklicense.aspx, or by calling 800.321.CSLB (2752).

Advertising the Legal Way

Advertising is always a great way to catch the attention of new customers—especially during the warm summer months. There are many ways to publicize your business—traditional advertising in newspapers, radio or television, business cards, lettering on your truck, directories like the yellow pages, and print and online directories. No matter which advertising method you choose, it's important that you follow California contractor advertising laws.

• Always Include License Number

Your contractor license number must be on anything considered to be advertising. Licensed contractors are required to include their CSLB license number(s) on everything from contracts, business cards, and yard signs to placards on commercially registered vehicles and promotional giveaways.

• Advertise Within Classification

Licensed contractors are not allowed to advertise for construction work outside of the trade(s) for which they are licensed.

• Don't Advertise about Bonding

Contractors are forbidden by law to advertise the fact that they are bonded. It could lead the public to believe there is a higher level of protection than might actually be the case.

• False Advertising Violations

It is a misdemeanor to use false, misleading or deceptive advertisements to sell clients home improvements and other services. It is also illegal to make misleading claims or advertise prices that you do not intend to honor. And remember, you cannot advertise using a company name different than what's on your official CSLB license.

Owner-Builder Requirements

If owner-builders use any signs, cards or directories that imply they can be hired by the public for construction or home improvement, they become subject to the same laws as other contractors.

Business and Professions Code section 7027 also prevents owner-builders from advertising illegally.

• Fines or Penalties

The civil penalty for licensees who violate the laws can range from $100 to $500, with multiple penalties for multiple violations.

• Unlicensed Operators

Unlicensed operators can legally advertise for construction work or improvements if the cost of the work (combined labor and materials) is under $500. However, they must state in the ad that they are "unlicensed." Unlicensed operators who advertise as a contractor in a directory, such as the Yellow Pages or any other advertising forum, face fines.

Building Energy Efficiency (Title 24) News

Regulations to enact the 2013 Building Energy Efficiency Standards were adopted on May 31, 2012. Updates and changes to the rulemaking schedule are available on the California Energy Commission's website http://www.energy.ca.gov/title24/2013standards/rulemaking/documents/index.html. The new standards are expected to go into effect in 2014.

With regard to the 2010 Title 24 standards currently in effect, the Energy Commission is concerned about confusion among contractors and code enforcement officials about when Title 24, Part 6 acceptance testing is required, and about the need to provide for adequate time and money for this testing. To address these concerns, the Energy Commission and the California

Commissioning Collaborative (a non-profit organization with representatives from investor-owned and municipal utilities, building owners, and service organizations) have developed resources to help overcome these barriers and achieve the full energy and cost-saving benefits of this testing. These are available online at http://www.cacx.org/ resources/title24_acceptance_testing.html.

Preserve Your Lien Rights – New Laws Effective July 1, 2012

A complete overhaul of state mechanic's lien laws contained in Senate Bill (SB) 189 in 2010 and SB 190 in 2011 went into effect on July 1, 2012.

While the new laws do not substantially change the rights and responsibilities of lien claimants and consumers, they do change or eliminate many Civil Code sections and the wording of release and notification forms. To assure that you protect your right to file a mechanic's lien, and that your clients preserve their rights as consumers, make sure to use the updated forms. Permitting Process Becoming Automated

Applying for building permits is becoming faster and simpler with online technology. Roseville and the city and county of Sacramento are among regions that recently have contracted with a software company that specializes in automating government services. Developers, residents, and businesses will be able to submit their plans for any kind of permit and also pay their fees online. In addition, municipalities will be able to monitor and expedite the process, and contact applicants who may not realize the reviewers are waiting for them to make the next move.

City officials agree that moving manual processes to technology and Web-based solutions will benefit all parties. Comments made by electronic permit reviewers will be made right on the plan sheets with links to relevant state codes. Several days will be eliminated from the review process, making this a very "green" process that involves fewer vehicles and less paper.

Contractors, some of whom have been involved in the automation-planning process, are supportive and acknowledge the cost benefit for the industry and municipalities, according to Roseville's community development manager, Chris Robles. CSLB hopes other agencies that issue permits for contractors will provide similar online services for contractors to increase compliance with permit laws by reducing costs and making the process more efficient for all.

"Our new software system will employ a customer-centric approach to the delivery of services that is intuitive, efficient, and value added to Roseville's development customers," said Mr. Robles.

Send Us Your Email Address

Remember to send your email address to CSLB when submitting the biannual license renewal form, even if the form does not yet have a designated box or space for it. This will enable you to participate in surveys that are used to update licensing examinations in your specific trade.

Surveys are developed for each trade every five years. For the last two years, CSLB has been using the online tool, SurveyMonkey, to administer as many surveys as possible. Contractors who are participating in the online surveys have reacted favorably, and the response rates have been equal to or higher than for the "old" paper and pencil surveys.

Using email addresses helps CSLB operate in a more environmentally friendly manner and reduce printing, paper, envelope, and postage costs. This process also speeds up data-entry time and prevents data-entry errors.

Receiving newsletters online—which means you signed up for CSLB's online Email Alerts—does not mean CSLB has your email connected with your license information. The database of newsletter email addresses is anonymous; no names or license numbers are attached to the email addresses. So, the next time you renew your license, please be sure to include your email address.

Preventing Falls in the Solar Installation Industry

As the solar industry grows, an increasing number of solar installation workers are exposed to fall hazards that can lead to injury or death, according to the California Department of Public Health (CDPH). CDPH's California Fatality Assessment and Control Evaluation (FACE) program recently released a four-minute video (http://youtu.be/imiFPy2DZkM) telling the tragic story of a 30-year-old solar panel installer who died on the job when he fell 45 feet off an apartment building roof.

The fall-prevention video is the second in a series of FACE training videos that stress the workplace safety message with real industry cases. The solar panel installer who was the subject of the video was not tethered to the roof and there were no other fall-protection systems in place.

"We put a human face on these training videos because we want people to realize that they could be involved in fatal workplace incidents. When workers identify with the workers in the video, they are more open to the safety messages that can prevent workplace deaths," said Laura Styles, FACE program manager and the videos' creator.

FACE encourages installation and construction companies to include the video in their safety training program. CDPH's Occupational Health Branch, FACE program (http://www.cdph.ca.gov/programs/ohb-face) has investigated the deaths of three solar installers. Links to complete fatality investigation reports, this video, and bilingual fact sheets can be found on the FACE solar safety page http://www.cdph.ca.gov/programs/ohb-face/Pages/Solar.aspx.

Weigh in on Pending State Laws and Regulations Affecting Construction Contracting

Several bills pertaining to home improvement contracting and the construction industry are making their way through the legislature this year, and state agencies are collecting public comment or have submitted approved regulations soon taking effect that could impact your business. The following lists are not all-inclusive, but you can check http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/bilinfo.html for information on legislation and http://www.oal.ca.gov/California_Regulatory_Notice_Online.htm for the Office of Administrative Law's Notice Register as regulations are introduced and become effective.

CSLB's sponsored bills are Assembly Bill (AB) 2237 (Monning) that would more clearly define a contractor and clarify the role of agencies that provide temporary laborers for licensees; and AB 2554 (Berryhill), that would change the name of CSLB's Enforcement Unit to the Enforcement Division. This change would provide all of CSLB's enforcement representatives (ERs) the opportunity to have the authority to issue a notice to appear (NTA). Under current law, only ERs assigned to CSLB's SWIFT unit have the authority to issue an NTA. The intent is not to issue more NTAs, but to achieve efficiencies within CSLB Investigative Centers (ICs). Duplication of work will be avoided by allowing an IC investigator to continue to investigate consumer complaints relating to unlicensed and uninsured practice, and participate in a sting to issue an NTA to the offending contractor.

Other legislation that impacts contractors includes:

Workers' Compensation

AB 1794 would make it a misdemeanor or cause for disciplinary action if a contractor fails to notify workers' compensation insurance providers within 20 days of hiring additional employees.

AB 2219 would amend Business and Professions Code section 7125 to indefinitely extend the requirement that all C-39 Roofing contractors obtain workers' compensation coverage, even if they certify that they have no employees. That requirement currently is set to expire at the beginning of 2013. The bill also would extend, indefinitely, the requirement that insurers conduct annual audits, and would add that these audits be conducted in person to verify the accuracy of the reported number of employees.

AB 2449 would make changes to laws regarding the definitions of independent contractors and workers' compensation.

Senate Bill (SB) 691 would add the Contractors State License Board to the list of agencies approved to receive workers' compensation information from the Employment Development Department.

Employer vs. Independent Contractor/Wages

AB 2288 would authorize a city or county prosecutor to take civil action against a building contractor for failure to pay wages, benefits, and workers' compensation to employees.

AB 2373 would amend the definition of an independent contractor.

SB 1333 would direct the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement to establish consultation services for businesses with fewer than 100 employees to help them clarify wage and hour laws, and would charge fees for these consulting services.

Underground Economy

SB 1185 would create the Central Intelligence Partnership among multiple state agencies to combat underground economic activity.

Regulations/Permits

AB 1537 would make changes to the rule-making process for regulations that would have a $50 million or more impact on California businesses.

AB 2114 would enact new construction permit requirements for swimming pools, spas, or public wading pools.

AB 2398 would impact permits for construction projects related to recycled water

AB 2595 calls for streamlining the permitting process for the design and construction of desalination plants.

SB 1099 would change the effective date of regulations to four times annually, versus the current 30 days following Office of Administrative Law (OAL) approval, and would require OAL to provide a link on its website to all regulations filed with the Secretary of State.

SB 1306 would make changes to the process of permitting and denial of permits for construction granted by the State Water Resources Control Board or its regional offices.

SB 1520 seeks to streamline the state's regulatory and permitting processes.

Public Works Contracting

AB 2353 would address substitutions in public works contracting.

AB 2440 would make changes impacting those contracting for public works projects with the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

SB 1370 would require the Department of Industrial Relations to post on its website prevailing wage requirements on public works projects.

SB 1549 would change public works contract bidding in the San Diego region.

Boards and Licensees

AB 1588 would waive fees or continuing education requirements for a licensee whose license expires while on active duty in the military reserve or California National Guard.

AB 1904 would allow for the issuance of temporary professional licenses (including those issued by CSLB) to spouses of those serving in the military.

AB 1920, which would have addressed payments for work done outside a contractor's licensing classification or without a license, failed passage in the Assembly Business, Professions and Consumer Protection Committee.

AB 2027 would change provisions for courts in determining whether individuals had substantially complied with state licensing requirements during the time work was performed.

AB 2482 would create the California Registered Interior Designers Board within the Department of Consumer Affairs, and includes provisions related to construction contractors licensed by CSLB.

AB 2570 would prohibit a licensee from including provisions in settlements of a civil dispute that prohibit the consumer from contacting, filing a complaint, or withdrawing a complaint with CSLB (or any other consumer protection board overseen by the Department of Consumer Affairs).

SB 975 would prohibit local governments from imposing licensing requirements on any professions that are licensed by DCA boards, bureaus, and commissions (such as CSLB).

SB 1576 would enable CSLB to take administrative action to address the filing of a false complaint against a licensee.

Other Proposals Related to Construction

AB 1750 would affect those contracting for rainwater capture projects.

AB 2339 would require state regulators and those involved in the heat pump and geothermal heating and cooling industries to evaluate policies and develop infrastructure for wider-spread use of these technologies.

AB 2644 would direct the Building Standards Commission to adopt standards for the construction, installation, and alteration of charging stations for electric vehicles in single family residential properties.

SB 1092 would address surety bonds for construction trucking services.

SB 1447 would address construction of artificial reefs.

Proposed and adopted regulations that may affect construction contractors include:

- The Board of Equalization is considering regulations that will impact use tax collection that might apply to some contractors in California. The proposal is on page 456 of 2012 Register No. 14-Z http://www.oal.ca.gov/res/docs/pdf/ notice/14z-2012.pdf.
- State Allocation Board regulations that became effective March 26, 2012, will impact future school construction contracts with respect to Department of Industrial Relations requirements for payment of prevailing wage. Details are on page 469 of 2012 Register No. 14-Z.
- Regulations proposed by the Secretary of State will impact fees required by some corporations regarding its Victims of Corporate Fraud Compensation Fund. The proposal is on page 477 of 2012 Register No. 15-Z http://www.oal.ca.gov/res/ docs/pdf/notice/15z-2012.pdf.
- Regulations proposed by Cal Recycle for the recycling of architectural paint called for in AB 1343 of 2010 were disapproved by the Office of Administrative Law, as detailed on page 528 of 2012 Register No. 16-Z http://www.oal.ca.gov/res/docs/ pdf/notice/16z-2012.pdf.
- State Water Resources Control Board regulations related to the construction of underground storage tanks became effective on May 10, 2012, and are detailed on page 534 of 2012 Register No. 16-Z.

Participate in the Construction Management Education Sponsorship Act

An Investment in Your Future and Others'

Improving your bottom line with managers who are educated and trained for the more complex systems and construction operations of the future is why the Construction Management Education Sponsorship Act (CMESA) of 1991 was established within Business and Professions Code section 7139-7139.10. Contractors who contribute to the CMESA fund are helping to strengthen construction management programs at universities throughout the state and make a direct impact on graduates who will become tomorrow's industry leaders.

Universities apply for CMESA grants each year, and an advisory committee of 11 representatives from professional contractor associations recommends the awards. Grant money may be used for instructional materials and support equipment, curriculum development and delivery, outreach, continuing education, faculty, and other related expenses. CSLB is responsible for CMESA administration and annually reports program activity to the legislature.

Award totals are based on the number of graduates from each university's accredited construction management program. The latest grant awards were approved for the following schools.

University	Grant Amount
California State University, Chico	$48,387.00
California State University, Fresno	$18,709.64
California State University, Long Beach	$19,999.96
California State University, Northridge	$5,161.28
California State Polytechnic University, Pomona	$24,193.50
California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo	$20,967.70
California State University, Sacramento	$12,580.62
Total Grant Amount	$149,999.70

Contributing to CMESA is easy; forms are available on the CSLB website http://www.cslb.ca.gov/Resources/FormsAndApplications/CMESADonationForm.pdf. <a href="mailto:microscoper-new-montpole

Help CSLB Help You

Does that sound like a strangely familiar line from the classic movie "Jerry Maguire?"

CSLB is in the early stages of developing new educational materials that can be used in the course of your contracting business, such as brochures contractors can hand out to prospective customers. These items will become part of a contractor information tool kit to support the value of your work as a state-licensed contractor.

By taking a five-minute online survey you'll be able to give CSLB your recommendations of the tools you believe will best help your business and clients. For instance, what type of sales materials work best for you? What other type of materials would be helpful for you to have? Take the online survey right now at https://www.cslb.gov.
